

When I first came to Icknield Community College on the introduction day I thought that Icknield was really, really big and that that I would get confused about where my classes were but now I'm more confident than before.

And with the homework I thought that the teachers would be really strict, but they just say that you've got the rest of the day to hand it in.

With P E I didn't know what lessons they would do and I thought that they would be really tricky but when I did a week of lessons I got the hang of everything.
